Once an opportunity reserved for university students, Anoka-Ramsey is a member of the Community College Undergraduate Research Initiative (CCURI), providing access to undergraduate research experiences. Advanced degrees are also offered through Minnesota State universities on its campuses, including bachelor's degrees in exercise science and software engineering, nursing, FasTrack license for secondary teacher certification, teacher education K-8 license, and the DLiTE program (undergraduate major in teaching).

Anoka-Ramsey has been recognized twice by the Aspen Institute College Excellence Program as one of the top 150 best community colleges in the United States. When searching for community colleges for this award, the Aspen Institute reviews many aspects of the individual colleges.

Above all, they focus on student success from the school. The other four factors that they look at are learning, certificate and degree completion, employment and earnings, and high levels of access and success for minority and low-income students.

Anoka Tech is home to the state's only accredited judicial reporting program. The degree in practical nursing at Anoka Tech and the Registered Nursing degree at Anoka-Ramsey fill a much needed role in fulfilling the region's healthcare workforce shortages. Both Anoka Tech and Anoka-Ramsey offer many healthcare related programs to meet student and industry demand.

Both colleges offer a rich campus life with a strong commitment to the community ranging from sustainability programs, to veterans' services, theatre performances, art events, and collegiate athletic events also open to the community.
